Win by 3 to 0, Wood's Muff Letting a Couple In at the Start.

By DANIEL.

Judged by the 1922 standards of baseball yesterday's game at the Polo Grounds was a bit of the drab and There were no managerial casualties, nobody kicked a ball around or tossed it over the grand stand, nobody came through with any fancy crabbing or sulking, not a soul soaked out a home run, a triple or even a lowly Cobb and Veach Drive in

All that happened was just an old fashioned pitchers' battle between Waite Hoyt and Stanley Coveleskiea tense scrap in which each allowed Senators Lose First of Series, only half a dozen singles and which developed one of those rare, obsolete shutouts as antique as the mummified whiskers of a Rameses or a flapper in long skirts. Fully recovered from their unpleasant meetings with the clawing Tigers the Yankees happily did the shutting out-defeated the Indians in their first appearance of the season here by 3 to 0.

Despite the absence of the aforementioned ultra modern trimmings it proved a contest which truly was a delight and some 10,000 fans soaked it in like a cool, refreshing breeze after a torrid, nid day. The air was thick, not with to Judge and the latter's throw reached befty wallops, but with codles and codles of pitching skill, forceful physical which, but for a costly fumble by Joe Wood in the first inning, would have permitted only one run to see the light of day. flinging and grade A mental slinging

Hoyt in Two Bad Places.

Hoyt, with a baffling change of pace and a fine curve ball, had the edge on the spitball throwing Pole. The Flatbush bridegreem got himself into a couple of tight places, but seemed to insert himself into these for the particular purpose of showing that he could extricate himself unscathed. Only in the sixth inning could the Indians put two hits together, but the second safety came with two down, and then Joe Sewell made it three out, all out.

Hoyt appeared to be in real Jeopardy in the seventh when Steve O'Neill's second of three hits was sandwiched between passes to Wood and Coveleskie This filled the bases with only one out, and, oddly enough, brought sheers from the third base sector of the grand stand, which appears to have made some money on the Detroit series. Due Jamieson, who had hit one of those singles in the sixth, forced Wood at the plate. Then Wambsganss sent up a high, fiekle foul, which Pipp saared after a great run, and Hoyt permitted himself the luxury of a smile once more. This man O'Neill did half the hitting for the Indians. He got three singles, Stuffy Melmis, usually a tough customer at the Polo Grounds, slammed out two hits—and then there was thablow by Jamieson to make up the round half dozen. Tris Speaker was the same old roving outfield—fast and sure and uncanny in his judgment of hitters, but after walking in the first. Tris registered a trio of failures with the bat.

Wood Lets Two Bounce In.

Pipp selected a prime spitball and seaked it into right. Wood took the bound high, then let the pellet keep right on traveling out of his hands. The ball bounced and bounced until it met the right field wall—and Baker and Miller bounced and bounced until they had scored. Pipp got all the way to third, but there Ward left him. It was a costly muff at the time, but that run in the eighth was all the Yanks needed yesterday.

It's hard to judge a ball club on one It's hard to judge a bell club on one name, but from what we saw yesterday the Indians have slowed up about 20 per cent, since last senson. They passed up a couple of double plays and were not as alert and fleet as they might have been on the paths. They were wild Comanches in 1921, but they look like soft Seminoles now.

CHEEVES REPEATS AGAINST GIANTS

New York Starts Rally in Fifth, but Is Unable to. Finish It.

Special Dispatch to The New York Health.

Chicago, May 16.—Finding themselves once more baffied by the slants of Virgil Cheeves, the Giants dropped the last game of the series with the Cubs to-day by a score of 3 to 2. Cheeves is the young man who whitewashed the champs in the opening game of the series, and he very nearly duplicated that fea's to-day, for only in the fifth inning were they able to cross the plate.

That round they pounded him hard and seemed on the way to winning the gent by the Pole Grounds for Saturday, and on Sunday, too.

Starting his first game of the year. Fred Toney loomed up in rather good form, but the Cubs hit him hard enough in the first and third innings to win the game. The big fellow did not have a very good day for his debut, for a fine rain fell during most of the game, making the ball slippery and at times difficult to handle. Toney gave four bases on balls, and one of these paved the way for the scoring of the Cubs' first run, which was rushed over the plate in the first inning.

THE LISTENING POST

BY WALTER TRUMBULL & Copyright, 1922, by The New York Herald,

SOME TEAM.

In sleep a rabid rooter Crept in through Dreamland's gate, And there before his dazzled eyes All paved with pearls of matchless size A road stretched broad and straight To where a huge enclosure Stood built of burnished yold. Above which flaglike floated far Soft clouds, each set with many a star And wondrous to behold.

Within there lay a diamond Laid out by rule and law And, in his dream, the fan at last Knew that the gates of heaven were past, For this is what he saw: Hornsby and Beauty Bancroft Near second base conversed: Groh was at third, and Tyrus Cobb Held down the center fielder's job. While Sisler covered first.

Babe Ruth and wise Tris Speaker In right and left scere found; Ray Schalk was there behind the bat To signal for this ball or that To Kaber on the mound. The rooter's life is saddened, For ere he saw them play He rolled completely out of bed. Lit on the apex of his head, And woke to greet the day.

THE MAJOR LEAGUES.

The first month of the season furnished several surprises. New York The first month of the season furnished several surprises. New York and St. Louis teams lived up to advance notices, and Pittsburgh and Cleveland began to settle into their stride, but few dopesters would have sustained seven-eighths was 9 minutes 91-2 seconds. Cornell won again at thace in 1916. This race was over a two-mile course, with a time of 11 minutes 211-2 seconds. Princeton and Yale finished second and third.

Due to the war, no regattas were held in 1917 and 1918, but in 1919 Yale opposed Pfinceton at Derby and won over

The Argentine is beliewing loudly a demand that Luis Angel Firpo be matched with Jack Dempsey, but we haven't heard Firpo's voice adding to the din. The Angel probably prefers going home on a boat to flying.

"Where did it go?" she demanded.

"Well," replied the other, "It went in a trap, but," she added, consolingly, "it is a very nice trap."

Four Double Plays Mark Defeat of Jersey Skeeters

Toronto Gets Breaks.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16 .- Four double plays featured the victory of the Leafs over Jersey City here to-day, the locals showing the way to the finish by 8 to 1, although outhit six to four.
Only thirty men faced Zellars, but a timely single by Orme, which scored two runs, and a homer by Wingo settled the affair. Orme has hit safely in his last fourteen games. The score:

London, May 16.—The Argentine polo team, in England for a series of matches, suffered its second defeat to-day at the hands of the Bucks Club team, which scored a 7 to 4 victory on the Hurlingham grounds.

The South American team consisted of Jack Nelson, Paul, Lacey and Traill. The Marquis of Villabragima, Major Miles, Major Barrett and Capt. Guest composed the Bucks Club team.

Do They Pass Hat at City College Stadium?

POLLOWING out his complaint to the Board of Estimate that the Stadium of the City College was being rented to semi-professional baseball teams on certain days and that a fee was required for entrance, President Murray Hulbert of the Board of Estimate, said yesterday that he had requested Mayor Hylan to direct Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield to make an investigation.

The Aldermanic president also said that he had heard that if an entrance fee was not charged the hat was passed around for money collections.

BRENNAN KNOCKS OUT JIM TRACY

Australian Makes Poor Showing as Windup Boxer in Garden Ring. By CHARLES F. MATHIESON.

Bill Brennan of Chicago, who once lasted twelve rounds with Jack Dempsey, last night in Madison Square Gar-lasted twelve rounds with Jack Dempsey, last night in Madison Square Garden knocked out Jim Tracy, a former heavyweight champion of Australia, after one minute and thirty-eight seconds of fighting in the eighth round.

If Brennan is under the impression that his victory over Tracy is a recommendation for another match with the champion he probably is mistaken. Tracy is beyond all question the poorest specimen of a boxer that has everappeared in the final bout in a New York club.

Tall, angular, apparently underfed, thin, sharp featured and without any evidence of muscular development, he did not appear to be a fighter from any point of view. There apparently was no reason for his meeting in the ring with Brennan.

Possibly Brennan was trying to end the contest as soon as possible, but it looked very much as though the Chicagoan was intent on giving the spectators a little entertainment before he put over the final punch.

Tracy clinched and hugged at every opportunity and did not show any special weariness until the fifth round, at the close of which he was plainly tired. Tracy showed a disposition to force the fight in the sixth round, and this was a dangerous move on his part, for Brennan, who evidently decided to bring matters to a close, knocked the tall chap down for a count of nine.

When the Australian rose he was quite groggy and Brennan tried to finish him, but Tracy managed to keep on his feet till the welcome bell sent him to his corner.

damage, but managed to last the round out.

When Tracy came out for the eighth Brennan rushed at him and with heavy rights and lefts to the jaw had the Australian staggering about the ring. Tracy backed into a neutral corner, and Brennan, closing in, shot a hard left to the mouth and then hooked the right to the chin, which put Tracy flat on his back. He was counted out. After the count of ten Tracy seized the referee by the legs and tried to pull himself onto his feet.

Yuseo Pearlstein, champion of Palestine, came through with flying colors

Yusei Pearlstein, champion of Palestine, came through with flying colors in his first battle in the Garden. He earned the decision over Gunner Arnold, the heavyweight champion of the Canadian army, in a four round bout full of bloody noses and black eyes.

Frank Johns, the last card in Jimmy Johnson's pack of white hopes, was swept into the discard by Joe Vidas, who recently stopped Johnson in three rounds at the Pioneer Sporting Club. Vidas did the job last night in quicked time, stopping Johns in the second round after thirty-flye seconds of fighting.

Joek Malone and Augie Ratner, two of the leading controlers for the middleweight honors, had their second meeting last night in a fifteen round contest and the judges declared it a draw. Malone outboxed Rafner in all but about three rounds of the fifteen and appeared to have earned the honors of the encounter.
